Ask Eric about the many kinds of aircraft he's flown and what he intends to learn to fly next.

As the director of the Advisory Solutions Desk, Eric is pleased to help IARs integrate Pacific Life's advisory annuities into their clients' financial plans. Eric and his team provide concierge services to fee-based advisors and their clients with a consultative approach.

During his 16-plus years of experience in the financial services industry, Eric has worked as a financial advisor, an annuity wholesaler, a sales trainer/coach, a sales team manager, and a sales desk director. His background in retirement planning, the RIA industry, and annuity distribution fuel his ability to help others achieve their financial objectives.

Eric graduated from Brigham Young University and earned an MBA degree from Utah State University. As the son of an Air Force pilot, he's lived in many fun places, but currently calls Omaha, Nebraska, his home. Eric also has a pilot's license and enjoys soaring through the skies every chance he gets. His other passions include playing the piano, volunteering at his church, and watching football. His number one priority in life, however, is to be the best husband and father he can be. Eric has been married to his wife, Jenna, for more than 22 years, and they have four children.
